The Center for Cultural Innovation Awards ARC Grants To 9 Los Angeles County Artists

The Center for Cultural Innovation (CCI) today announced nine (9) recipients in the 2013 Fourth Quarter round of funding under its ARC (Artists' Resource for Completion) grants program, which is designed to enhance the careers of Los Angeles artists by enabling them to take the best advantage of imminent opportunities to present their work.

The ARC program provides rapid, short-term assistance to enhance work for a specific, imminent opportunity that may significantly benefit an artist's career. CCI took over administration of the ARC program from the Durfee Foundation in January 2011. The Durfee Foundation and the Center for Cultural Innovation are excited to partner in continuing to make this important and vital resource available to L.A. artists. With the extension of the ARC program for a final five rounds of funding in 2013 and 2014, CCI is pleased to focus on artists who have never received an ARC grant and would be "first-time" ARC grantees.

"It is a privilege to support the work of these Los Angeles County artists and first-time ARC grantees, and to acknowledge the impact their work has had on the community," said CCI President and CEO Cora Mirikitani.

The ARC grants program was established by the Durfee Foundation in 2000 in an effort to provide a dedicated resource for individual artists living in Los Angeles County. Over the last decade, the ARC program has had an extensive impact on the Los Angeles arts community, helping advance the careers of nearly 600 individual artists, working in all disciplines.

About CCI: The Center for Cultural Innovation (CCI) was founded in 2001 as a California 501(c)(3) nonprofit corporation. Its mission is to promote knowledge sharing, networking, and financial independence for individual artists and creative entrepreneurs by providing business training, grants, and incubating innovative projects that create new program knowledge, tools, and practices for artists in the field.
